PEOPLE FOOLED IF THEY THINK RATES ARE TO BE LOWER

Director General Hines Says Many Are Makvate Ownership.

San Francisco, May 14.—"If there is a tendency to assume that all the high costs of the railroads are due to government control, the public is deceiving itself in the most unfortunate way about the problem that confronts said Walker D. Hines, United States director general of railroads, in the course of an address in San Francisco recently.
"Federal control of railroads is a fact," he continued, "and the high costs of railroad operations are facts. Therefore, there is a disposition to assume that the high cost is due to federal control, although practically every other business has had the same high costs, although not federally

"If the public is led into confusion on that point, and to thinking that these high costs of operation are merely due to federal control and will terminate at the end of federal control, it is going to provide a scheme of permanent regulation which will fall far short of meeting the situa-tion, and which will fall far short of giving the public the sort of railroad regulation and the sort of railroads which are needed in order to carry on the business of the country.

"I want to emphasize again the great mistake that is being made in so many quarters of introducing the notion that the low costs when they get back to private management will return. That can not be accomplished. This war has made changes in railroad regulation which will last beyond our lives. We are in a new world as to costs and as to methods of doing business, and no merely superficial changes in railroad regulation which might have been reasonably plausible before the war can begin to meet the situation that will confront this country from this time on.

"Railroad costs are inevitably on a to the realization of the necessity of ferences. giving new capital an adequate assurance to attract it to the railroad business. We move in a new era, and we have got to have a new form of regu- not proven acceptable. lation, in my opinion, in order to make railroad private management a success for the future. Therefore, you cess for the future. Therefore, you should bear in mind the necessity for going to fundamentals and for makgoing to fundamentals and for making a much more radical change in the regulation of private management than would have been regarded as necessary if the war had not taken

AUSTRIAN - PEACE DELEGATES TO HAVE TERMS BY WEEK END

Paris, May 14.---The belief is expressed today that the peace treaty with Austria will be handed to the delegates by the end of the week.

Editor Eagle.

My Dear Editor:—Yesterday I reached not only the women who were tree to give their time to the work, but it reached the "home guard" also, the women who stayed at home and "kept the home fires burning," thereby releasing other members of their family for active duty.

Letters by the score have come to this office from women too occupied with home affairs to do active war work, but who were inspired to subscribe because of stories they read in the press. Oftimes they inclosed the magic clippings while they wrote "If by the splendid articles which have the government needs all of my sav ings, I am ready."

In all of the loans, women have sold bonds. In the fourth loan, more than state, large or small, and while all $36,000,000 was secured by the women of the eleventh district and in the fifth, while the figures are not all the Eagle for its unusually good work. in, we have reached more than $25,-000,000 for the women's committee. When the final figures are compiled have scured fully one-third of the subscriptions.

Without the inspiration and help of the press, no such result would have been attained, and so, while there is glory enough for all, all honwas brought out that the government found it necessary to take the revolutionary step of enlisting the ser-When through the press the fact or to the press who "told the story," people, and who made possible the ed in the Mexican congress, according vices of women to sell bonds, the men song of victory for the liberty loans to Mexican officials in Nuevo Laredo which we may sing today.

At the meeting in March Professor

C. Lawson was elected superinld teachers were re-elected, 24 in all.

The board took the question of salries up and after a lengthy discus-ion it was decided to make a readjustment of all salaries, and to pay each teacher according to what that teacher is worth to the city schools. Under this adjustment several of the teachers received substantial increases, and all will be paid adequate salary, so as to meet the increased cost of living and to retain the best class of teachers for the city schools.

On account of the increased growth of the high school it was decided to add one new teacher to the high school department and Professor Eugene S. Lawler was selected. Professor Lawler is now at Camp Travis, but is known as a man of delightful personality and splendid attainments, and is well qualified for the position to which he is elected.

For some time the rooms on the west side have been badly crowded, and it was decided to take steps at once to relieve this condition, and to provide just as soon as possible proper building facilities for the west side school, and to give this school all the modern conveniences just as rapidly

Since the overthrow of the old regime and the setting up of the socalled new government, Editor Hardin has been persistent in sounding the warning that the Germans were headed in the same way as when they traveled under the Hohenzollern lead. In discussing the peace treaty, Editor Hardin says:

The peace conditions are not harder than I expected. They were unpleasant to the greater part of the people, but could one really have expected them other-

The Germans have not given very convincing mental guarantees during the six months since the revolution that they have changed their system on the contrary, the present government and the press have used the same methods of incitement, the same tricks of bluff, as under the old rule of the petty nobility.

The government's proclamation and edicts are only bad copies of the kaiser's time. The whole press resounds in protests and has started a campaign of incitement against the allies, couched in violent language. It is agitating for refusal to sign the and to what use? All must know that the allies, by keeping up the blockade and occupying the coal districts, can force Germany to sign whatever they want.

The allies have been threatened that Germany would join the bolsheviki. But that would be suicidal. The only way to rescue the country is by openness and honesty. The revolution has been a great disappointment.

Germany should have sent men who would have laid their cards on the table and got the allies to understand that some of the conditions were unacceptable. If Germany showed its good will to do what is in its power to comply with the allies' requests, the allies would see that conditions were changed in favor of Germany, and that it is impossible to destroy the German people.

If the Germans had adopted a different attitude after the armistice was signed; if they had shown that they had really changed, and that they regretted what they had done; if their delegates to the peace conference had come in a friendly attitude and had said: "Germany is whipped; our leaders led us astray, but we have seen the light and we want to pay, so far as it is in our power, for the damage and misery that we have caused, and we want to show by our future actions that we want to and will live a different life, and will make amends for the misdeeds of our rulers as far as we can; deal with us leniently;" if Germans had done this there would have swept over the world such a wave of sympathy for them as would have compelled their bitterest enemies to temper their demands.

But the conduct of the German people since the armistice was signed, and the arrogance of their delegates at Paris, has only confirmed the world in its opinion that the German today is the same brutal, murderous thug he was in 1914, and that he only waits the opportunity to wreak his vengeance on all who may be so unfortunate as to fall in his

It is to be hoped that the peace delegates at Paris will refuse to temporize with the Germans in any manner, and that when the fifteen days' time is up they will say to him: "Sign, or take the consequences!" and be prepared to administer, without mercy, stern justice.

Any man or set or men have an in-alienable right to attempt to correct any condition that may exist in this country so long as they attempt to correct in an American way, but when any man or set of men bring to this country from the old world the ways of the ignorant and the vicious, they should not be allowed to remain should not be allowed to remain. LLOYD GEORGE'S GREAT

Lloyd George, England's great precaluminators, and his destructive critics just as the greatest of them all, Woodrow Wilson, has had. The English parliament, or rather certain members of that parliament sent his actions on the league of nations, and his stand at the peace conference, on certain matters, and the little Welshman went home and defended his action in a speech which is coming dresses of the world's history. In ner in which the spokesman of the speaking of this address the Christian delegation replied to Premier Clemscience Monitor, one of the world's

George's great speech in the British house of commons, wherein he defended the work of the peace conference in Paris, is undoubtedly the speech itself. Mr. Lloyd George is aiways at his best when on the defensive, and ever makes notable use of the three fold armament which is the right of a protagonist whose cause is just. He faced his critics squarely, and in his every sentence, strangely overwhelmingly reserve of "The situation is full of perils for all countries. Those who are trying to do their best had better be let No conference in history has such been faced with problems of variety, complexity, magnitude, and gravity." So, with almost brutal trankness, he put the issue, and, at once, went on to outline the vigorous strokes the tremendous task that had lain before the conference in Paris. The congress of Vienna had lasted eleven months, and yet its task was almost insignificant, compared with what the present peace conference had done and had still to do. New states had sprung into existence, some of them independent, some of them semi-independent. The delegates were dealing with many nations, most of them with problems of their own, each with a different point of view, and it required, at every turn, all the tact, patience, and skill that could be commanded to prevent varying interests developing into conflicting interests. There were questions never heard of which imperiled the peace of Europe while the conference was sitting. Questions never heard of before the war had nearly produced a con-flict between two of the allied states, and there was a number of such ques-Added to all this, the conference had to shorten its labors, be-cause, while it was trying to build, in

"No body of men," Mr. Lloyd George declared, "worked harder or in better harmony than the peace conferees," and then he added, with one of those sharp thrusts, which his opponents have learned to dread, "and I doubt whether any body of men ever work-ed under greater difficulties. Stones were clattering on the roof and crashing through the windows, and wild men were screaming through the keyhole, whilst enormous issues depended on us, requiring calm deliberation." It was, however, when he came to verse this magazine seeks to promote deal with the question of the special correspondent and the terrible misuse By many of the I. W. "As for those," he said, "who attempted to sow dissensions, distrust, and suspicion be-tween the nations whose cordiality and good will toward each other was essential, I can not conceive of a worse crime at a time when nothing could save the world but keeping the nations together.' And then he ad-ded, emphatically, "It is not true that the United States and Europe have been at variance. The arrogance and impudence of the Germans is well illustrated in the speech of Brockdorf-Rantzau at the peace conference and the manner assumed by the German delegates. Outlaws to civilization, as they are, Lloyd George, England's great pre-mier, has had his detractors and his that they be taken back into the family of nations on their own terms and conditions. Brockdorf-Rantzau admits that wrong was done to Belgium, and superciliously consents to repair some of that damage, but repudiates Lloyd George a telegram criticising the demand that the Germans should be held accountable for the war, or for the ruin and devastation that has come to other sections on account of the frenzied brutality of the Germans. his action in a speech which is coming! He also demanded that the guilt of the Germans be determined by a commission composed of neutral nations. They well know there are no longer such nations. Twenty-three nations were represented at the peace table as enemies of the unspeakable hun and those who were not represented are either allies of the central powers or under their influence. There are no

No. The allies have spoken. They licked the hun until the cowardly cry caused them to halt and grant him an armistice. Many thought at that time that it was a mistake, and the actions of the Germans ever since the armistice was signed has only tended to confirm such people in their opinion.

If Foch had marched his allied arnies into Berlin and the huns had been given a taste of the same medicine that they gave to the countries and peoples they overran they would have talked differently at this time. The German has shown no repent-

Six months have not changed him and Marshal Foch has a right to fear his treachery.

Surely the action of the peace delegates will estop such sympathy as some were disposed to extend to the beaten hun. It is true no one, in this country, wants to persecute the German. JUSTICE FOR THE FOSTER PAR-ENTS OF OUR CHILDREN.

The following article which will appear in the Literary Digest of May 10, is reproduced at the request of one of the leading educators of Texas and himself an employer of teachers.

The article is timely and should have the attention of every man and woman who has the future welfare of the nation at heart:

"It is strange that the generoushearted American people, who poured out their riches so prodigally in response to every patriotic, every charitable appeal, and who accorded such enthusiastic and liberal support to every measure and to every group these ery measure and to every group that helped win the war, should have neg-lected to properly encourage and reward the services of one of the noblest professions in the field of human acvities-a profession that in lofty ideals, in unselfish principles, in sacred responsibilities, stands side by side with the ministry of the gospel itself.

We wish to bespeak, with whatever power and authority we may have and with such words as may be granted to us, some measure of considera-tion for the foster-fathers and moth-ers of our children—the school-teach-ers of the United States of America.

No class has assumed so heavy, so trying a burden and a resposibility with such willingness as these con-Many have recognized for a long time the danger that comes from allowing foreigners to come to this country, with but little attempt to control the class that comes.

Americans welcome foreigners and gladly extend the hand of fellowship to the worthy foreigner from every clime, when they come to American and adopt American ways and strive for the attainment of American ideals, but it surely is time to put a stop to the machinations of such foreigners as make up the great body of the I. W. W. organizations and so-every measure undertaken by the government to win the war. Truly they have made the nation of a generation.

What then have the teachers received at our hands in return? They have received little of honor and somewhat less of pay. Other classes have pros-pered; other classes through powerful pered; other classes through powerful organizations have secured generous wages. The teachers have no spokesman, however, to demand even the simple justice of a living wage, so to them we give their petty pre-war pittance, so meager, so pitifully inadequate, that it places a burning brand of shame and disgrace upon this nation.

The men and women who are makthan the janitors who sweep out the buildings in which they are employed; they are earning on the average, less than the wages given to the scrub-women employed in the public build-ings of the United States government. Normal-school graduates receive less salary than street-sweepers; high school principals and superintendents less than section foremen; country school teachers less for instructing the farmer's children than he pays his hired man to feed his hogs.

In a certain town of Illinois, for instance, the average wages of fifteen miners for one month was $217, while the average monthly salary of fifteen teachers in the same town was $55. In another town a miner, who, by the way, was an enemy alien, drew more than $2,700 last year, while the sal-ary of the high school principal in the same town was $765. We welcome with all our hearts the long belated recognition that is being given to the man who works with his hands. We believe that this same workingman will be the first to join with us in asking better pay for those who teach his children.

No wonder there are fifty thousand vacancies in the teaching forces of the schools. No wonder the ranks are being filled with weak men and with mmature women who merely use the profession as a stepping stone to something better. No wonder there are thirty thousand teachers in the United States who have had no schoolng beyond the eighth grammar grade. Small wonder, indeed, that seven mil-lion of our school children are being trained by teachers, mere boys and girls themselves, who have professional education whatever.

When we consider that the 740,000 eachers of America are paid an average salary of $630 a year; when, more over, we consider the fact that living costs have actually advanced 103 per cent since the beginning of the war, thereby cutting the buying power of these insignificant salaries in half, we can easily determine that only a fool or a martyr would choose teaching as a profession, or would long remain in

What a crime is this! What an indictment! What an unpardonable sin at the doors of an enlightened people who now find themselves at the head and forefront of the democracies of the world! How can we better prepare for the great undertakings of reconstruction than by setting ourselves immediately to remedying this perilous condition. In these trying and chaotic times when the world is ing evils that follow in the train of war, we must make sure that the foundations of our republic are set on a rock that it may stand against the

of equality, or as a friend until he has expiated his past crimes and shown himself to be entitled to the world's confidence and friendship.

The German has a friend until he of the future will be in the safe keeping of the generation now in our schools. These boys and girls must be a supplied to the future will be in the safe keeping of the generation now in our schools. minds must meet and solve the difficult and crucial problems that will be their inheritance. Their hearts must be so imbued with the horrors of If for no other reason, do give the war and the poverty and anguish that inevitably follow in its wake that they in their time will enter upon it only as a last resort in national self-defense or in support of some great principle of humanity.

Never has there been a more urgent splendidly trained, 100 per cent Amerhands of the teachers. And yet thousands of men and women of ability who would prefer to teach are reluc leaving their chosen calling, forced by the hard necessity of their very existence.

The teachers ask no largess at the hands of fortune. They enter their profession for service, not riches. But they invest years and money in preparation for their life work and the knowledge they gain is shared with others who themselves use it to their own profit. Teachers, then, by every right and in all justice expect a return that will permit them and their dependents to live decently and in comfort.

In every community reached by the Literary Digest there are readers of foresight, of vision, broad minded men and thoughtful women who will see—nay, perhaps have long since seen—the critical and compelling importance of this problem. We are directing this appeal to them. We urge them to compare the salaries of their them to compare the salaries of their teachers with the wages of those who are doing work of equal value. There will be a challenge in the facts that will stir the community to action.

Let each community invest in schools so that it may thereby invest n a trained manhood and womanhood that can play their part in the great period of rebuilding and reconstruc-tion that lies before us. Let each community set for its goal, as far as s practicable, a minimum wage of at least $1,000 a year for the teachers of America. This would cost the nation perhaps as much as we spent so glo-riously in but one week of the great war.

We are not pleading merely for the welfare of some single profession; we are not pleading for a special we are not pleading for America; we are not pleading for a special class; we are pleading for America; for her larger, her brighter, her richer future, for the fulfilmnet of her glorious promise. We are pleading for a coming race of men and women who shall be qualified to make complete the work of our forefathers who found this pation and dedicated it. founded this nation and dedicated it to liberty, and who will bring to full fruition the new victories that we have won in freedom's cause. We are pleading for a wider teaching of the principles, the purposes, and the ideals of this nation that all men shall know her meaning and shall have equal access to her opportunities; that the light of Americanism will so shine that it will flood every home, every heart, in our great land.

BUILD FOR YOUR CHILD Ambitions may be realized in your children if you have the home envi-ronment which transmits to them the ambition. The basic need is a home and the sense of shelter and security which goes with ownership.

If there were no other arguments worth while men would be more than justified in building and owning their own homes for the children's sake.

Like father like son! The next generation will not be a home-owning one if the present generation doesn't show the benefits of home owning and inculcate the home-owning ambition.

If you are determined that John and Mary shall have a fair show to make good on your ambitions for them, get them tucked away in a good them, get them tucked away in a good home—a home that is all yours, and theirs. It will become to them the very hub of the universe; a very sacred and a very tangible example of the prudence of thrift. If you would do your part toward making your children's future secure in a nation of home owners-build now.

BUILD YOUR HOME

Somewhere in the heart of every man is the desire to be independent. Independence is the measure of one's standing in the community.

The first step along the road to independence is to own one's home. The man who owns his home is the respected, the trusted man in every community.
One of the largest employers of labor in the country ordered a can-vass of his factories to determine what percentage of his employes owned their own homes. At the same time he urged all employes in the establishment to become home owners or home buyers.

Sound logic prompted this action. The responsible man is the valuable employe. The home owner has deeper sense of civic pride. He is established; he is responsible; he is interested in everything that tends toward the peace and security and up-building of the community.

The example set by one manufac-turer will be followed by others. It will daily become more requisite to a man's securing responsible employment that he owns his own home. There is little excuse for a man not owning his own home. The great lib-erty loans have instilled into the American people lessons of thrift that will endure through the coming days of peace. Every man can and should vn his own home.

There is no appeal from the man who seeks a position that is treated so lightly, by private and public em-ployer alike, as the appeal which comes from the man who has everything to gain and nothing to lose. The independent man always owns his own home—build yours now.

There was a time when the purpose of a paper was thought to be that of simply stating conditions as they are. At the present there is rapidly growing tening tendency to use the news-paper to state conditions as they should be. A newspaper that tells what to do to make things better plays a great part in making democracy safe.

New York, May 13.—The negro represents 10 per cent of the population of the United States and none of the national problems can be really solved if we leave out the 10,000,000 ne-groes," says Ralph Welles Keeler of the home mission council of the Methodist Episcopal church. "A national commission made up of all groups concerned about the negro is needed, in order that the negro's educational opportunities, living conditions and relationship to civic conditions may be nade live issues.

"Those who have studied the northward migration of the negro believe that it has only begun, and with his exodus the planter began to appreciate his value—the greatest single asset of the south."

A recent survey gives as causes of the migration of negroes to the north during 1918, industrial openings, demands for common labor, response of foreigners to the call to military service and the cutting off of immgration; also, that in the north they found less prejudice, less discrimination, better schools, more freedom and more protection.

The volume of negro migration from 1916 to 1918 is estimated at 250,000 working men or, with their families, about 750,000 persons. The cities to which this northward migration has been most largely directed are, in order of number of migrants ranging from 50,000 to 10,000, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Detroit, New York, Newark and New England cities.

Now the negroes who are returning from military service overseas and from camps within the United States must be considered. It was found at Camp Devins, in Massachusetts, that between 4000 and 5000 negro soldiers planned to settle in Boston after their demobilization. It is felt by those studying the problem that as the returning negro has shown his willingness to perform the duties of American citizenship, his claim to the full rights and privileges of citizens of the country should be recognized.

The Hobby land settlement plan is not intended as a revenue raising measure; but those who have watched the operation of similar plans in other countries and in California believe the state would at the end of a ten year period be receiving more than half a million of revenue as a result of its operation in Texas.

Lands that are now taxed at from five to ten dollars an acre would be assessed at three and five times these amounts after their improvement and sale—and the home owner does not and can not escape his taxes as does the owner of vacant land.

(By Clarence Ousley.)
There must be a day of settlement in political as in business affairs.
Controversy can not continue forever. I have heard prohibition and woman suffrage discussed ever since I was a boy-and for some years I did my full share of the discussing. The people of the several states and of the nation have long deliberated and have reached conclusions more or less definite and resolute.

As to prohibition, I would have chosen other methods of promoting temperance, and I would have preserved the state's police powers in such matters. But the nation has speker in the ordering well as negatively in resistance of federal encroachment. The prime need of the times is the promotion of farm home ownership, which is becoming increasingly difficult on account of the high and advancing price of lands. stitutional amendment and as a democrat who believes in acquiescence in the deliberate will of the majority, and as a citizen who believes in obedience to law. I deem it a column obedience to law. spoken in the ordained way of con-stitutional amendment and as a demdience to law, I deem it a solemn duty to join in the most effective methods of enforcement. It will be difficult for the federal government to enforce prchibition. In my opinion the state can do it more efficiently and I prefer state officers, amenable to state law and local sentiment, rather than his family in the simplest comfort and sentiment to entire the state of the st federal officers, amenable to Washington authority, indifferent to state office of governor on less than $10,and local sentiment and prone to pracand local sentiment and prone to practice harsh and intolerable methods common to centralized bureaucracy. For these reasons I now favor constitutional state prohibition as austitutional state prohibition as au-thority for adequate legislation to ef-fect the manifest will of the people.

Suffrage Accepted As to woman suffrage, I have always opposed it for sociological rea-sons. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say sociological apprehensions rather than reasons.

At the same time political privi-lege is so precious that I am reluctant to deny it to any who de-sire it and are qualified to exercise it. But my apprehensions, though still entertain them, can not longer be urged in face of the fact that our state already has conferred the franchise upon women for exercise in the party primaries, and I believe that the legislature in so doing reflected public opinion. Participation in politics by women has been decreed, as ing generation. They may manage it then, and what proceeds from it, as they please, during their usufruct." it were, by the people of our state and it will not be abandoned in any calculable time, if ever. I can see no reason for not making the state constitution conformable to that poli-cy and I see one cogent reason for doing so. While under ordinary circumstances our state affairs are deter mined in the democratic primary, it may happen, as it has happened in the past, that the party may divide on a vital issue, or a strong opposition par-ty may develop, and determination will be made by a regular election. In such event the constituencies participating in the primaries should have a right to participate in the election. The franchise has been conferred for the primaries as a measure of legislative grace. In conformity with clearly expressed popular will and in maintenance of sound public policy, it ment and the other by legislative action which the people have approved by electing the present state admin-istration with that issue distinctly presented, and by raising no protest in the election of any considerable number of legislators.

I esteem as highly as any man can esteem, without abdicating his own intellectual responsibility, the wisdom of the founders of the republic and of the commonwealth. I yield to none in admiration amounting almost to reverence, but I can not agree that all wisdom died with them, and I must accommodate my action both to the reason of the situation and to the will of the people which the founders of our government made supreme The home purchase amendment is not as I would have drawn it. Plans for patriotic service such as no other fraternal organization has ever undertaken will come up for disexpected to be the most important and most enjoyable in the history of Texas Elkdom and a number of the Bryan order will attend.

The National Elks association has undertaken the task of rehabilitating the wounded soldiers of American believe generally that rather large citizenship who fought with the Brit-powers in such matters should be giv-en to the legislature. I believe in a positive rather than a negative state sovereignty—a sovereignty able to act arrirmatively in construction as needed. Many hundreds and probably thousands of American soldiers have been wounded while fighting with the armies of America's allies, chiefwell as negatively in resistance of ly those of Great Britain and Canada, and these men under the present laws are not entitled to the government benefits extended injured soldiers of the American armies.

The national association has appropriated $250,000 for this work and is now maintaining a hospital in Boston where 547 men, seriously wounded in time will scarcely purchase more than $4,000 purchased when the present constitution was adopted. Besides, the the war, are receiving treatment. The association has done this in order that the country may be saved the sad sight of extreme suffering among these men who have sacrificed so much in the cause of democratic government. These men are citizens of the United States and the national organization of Elks believe they are just as deserving of care as the boys who fought in the American

No question of membership with the Elks is involved. Aid will be extended every American citizen who suffered injuries while fighting with the forces of America's allies.

The Galveston convention will not be given over entirely to business, by any means. A social program that is expected to surpass anything the organization has yet enjoyed is being made ready. The Galveston lodge will act as host to the members of the state delegation and will see that time does not hang heavily on the hands of any one while they are in that city.

The antlered herd in Texas numbers a little less than 18,000. The lodges everywhere are in good condi-tion and the Galveston meeting is expected to mark an epoch in the his-

"You are probably aware that the prevalence of rent profiteering has so outraged the people of our large cities that they are demanding relief and that if this relief is not forthcoming they will make it an issue at the coming election. We beg to advise you that a number of leading farm organizations are in full sympathy with the city workers in this matter and will cooperate with them in any political effort that may be necessary to bring relief.

"The Farmers National Single Tax league, believing that the right settlement of this rent question goes to the very heart of the high cost of living, unemployment, low wages, ten-ant farming, and low prices for farm products, is aiding, to the limit of its abilities, in this movement, and desires to know what will be the atti-

"These unjust profiteering rents, unemployment, low wages, tenant farming and low prices for farm products, are all phases of a single so-cial wrong—the holding of land out of use by the land speculator. The great farm organizations, without exception, have demanded that taxes be so levied as to ENCOURAGE HOME-OWNING and DISCOURAGE LAND SPECULATION and TEN-ANCY.

Farmers National council, epresenting 750,000 organized farmers, at the national capital at Washington, at their January conference, declared that 'taxation should be used as a remedy to force into productivity idle acres held for speculation.'

"The United States commission on ndustrial relations, in its final report in 1912, recommended the forcing of all unused lands into use by making the tax on non-productive land the same as on productive land of the same kind, and exempting ALL improvements,' as a means of striking at tenancy and land speculation.

"There is no city in the country that does not have almost as much vacant land as improved, within its imits or immediately adjacent. The levying of a stiff tax against such land, and the removal of taxes from houses, would bring most of it into use at reasonable prices, and would stimulate the building of homes.
